

University of Instruction Course Competencies

Joint Courses

PHA 1104: Introduction to Principles of Leadership

Upon completion of this course, University participants should be able to:

1. Recognize the importance of effective leadership and foundational theories.
2. Analyze the significance of people and their inherent relationship to the principle of influence.
3. Recognize the significance of leadership diversity and of being surrounded by individuals with assorted talents.
4. Recognize the importance of effective communication
5. Carry basic motions using Robert's Rules of Order
6. Participate in group presentations or masonic educational cases to highlight the importance of the aforementioned competencies.
7. Take a summative exam to assess competency comprehension.